

Connections

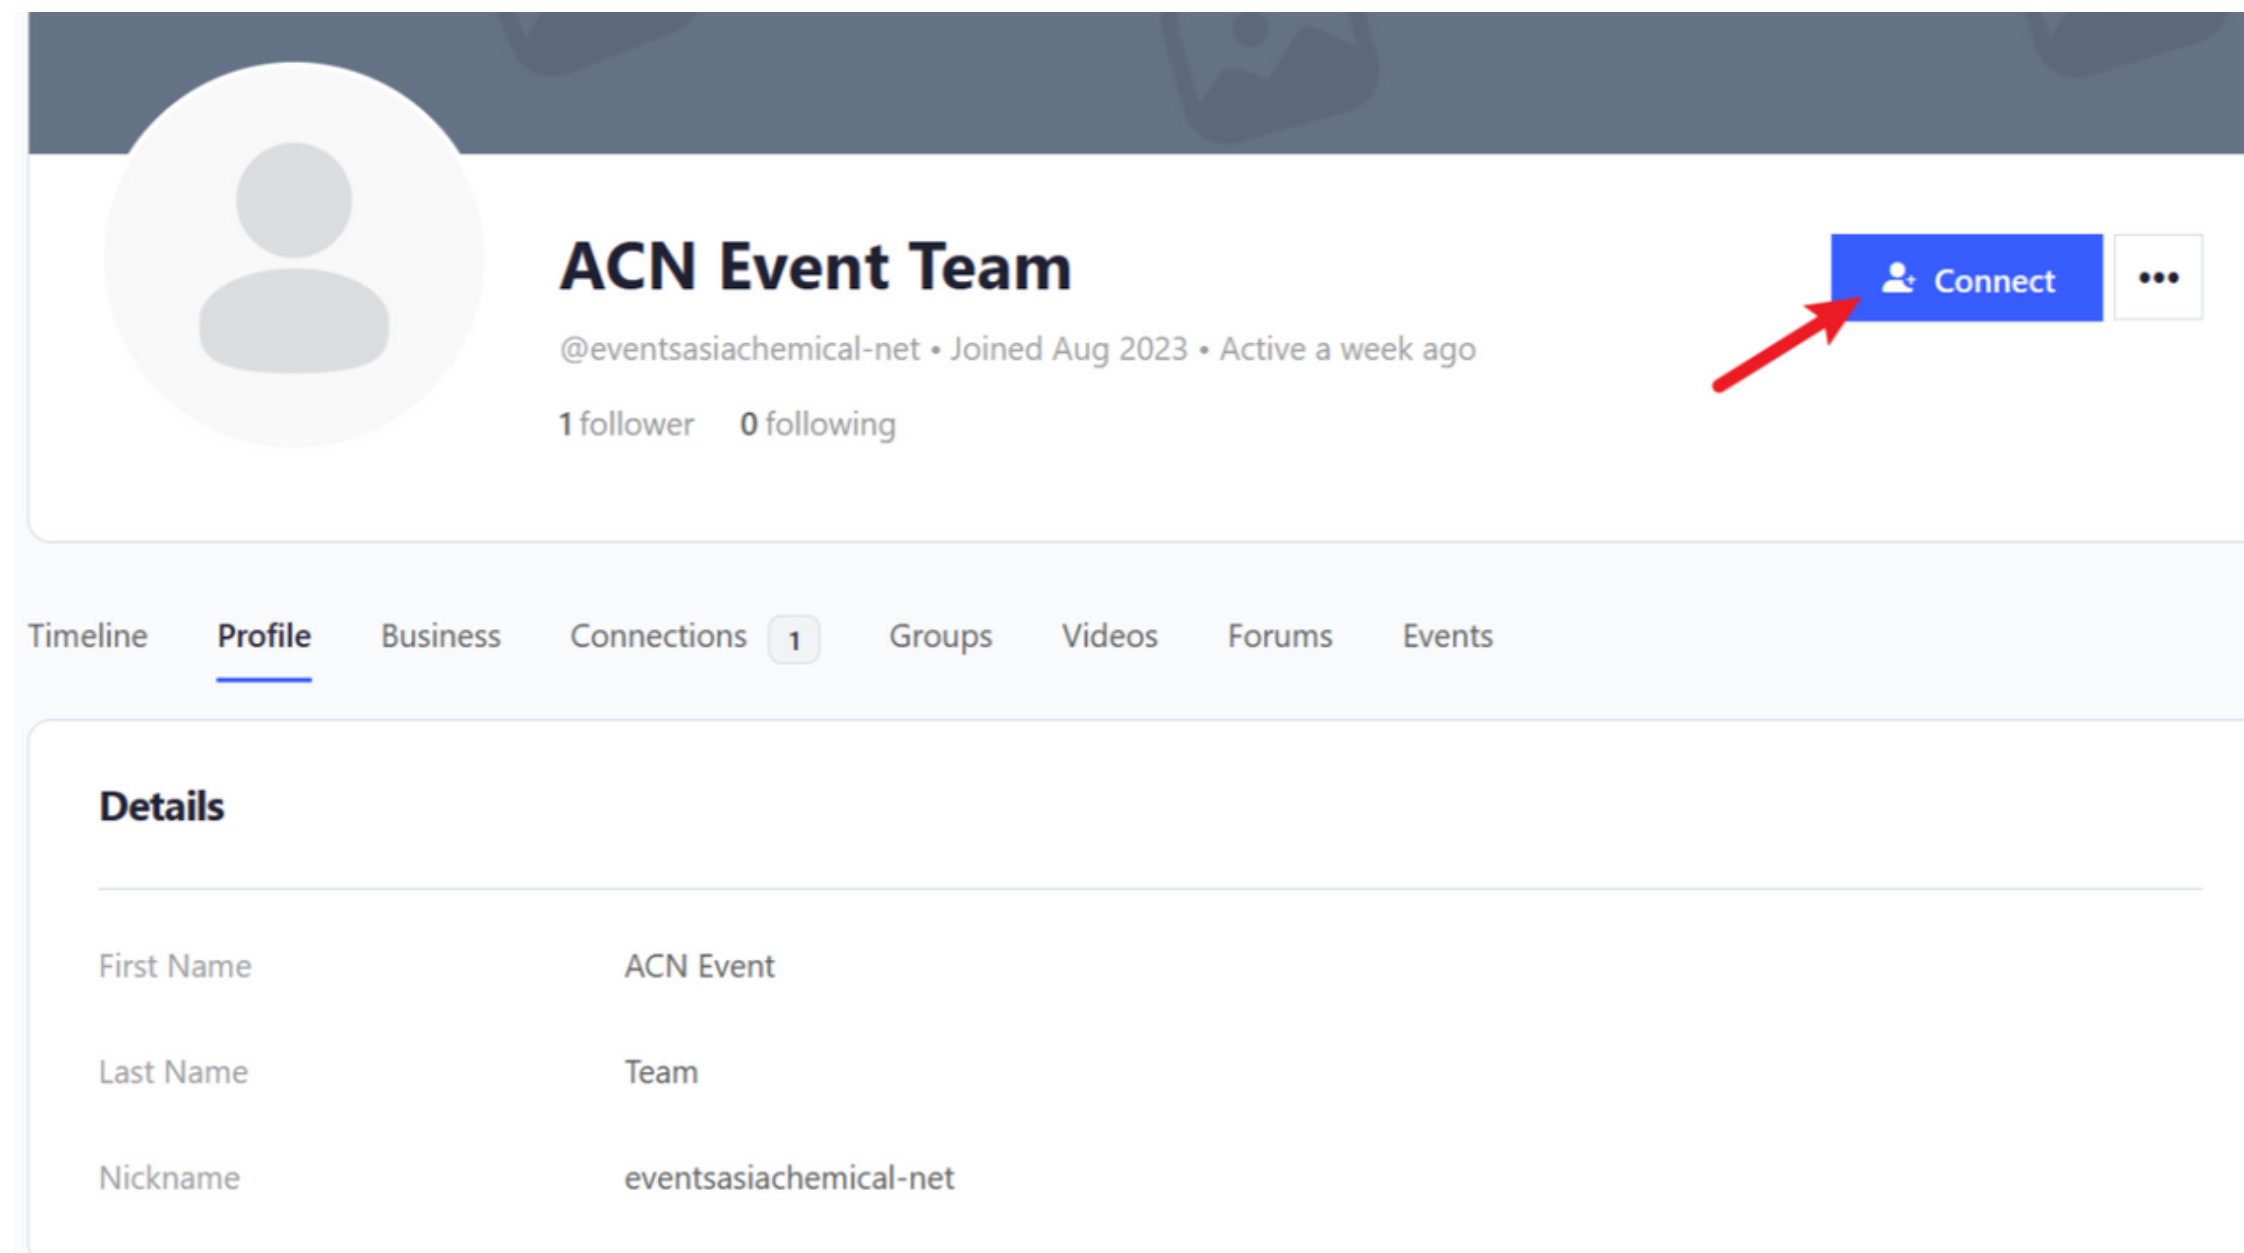

The “Connections” functionality on Asia Chemical Network allows users to establish professional relationships with other members. Users can send and accept connection requests, which can enable further interaction such as private messaging. This feature helps build a network within the platform, making it easier to engage with others in the chemical industry community, share insights, and discover business opportunities.

Make Connection Requests

You can connect with members in two different ways:

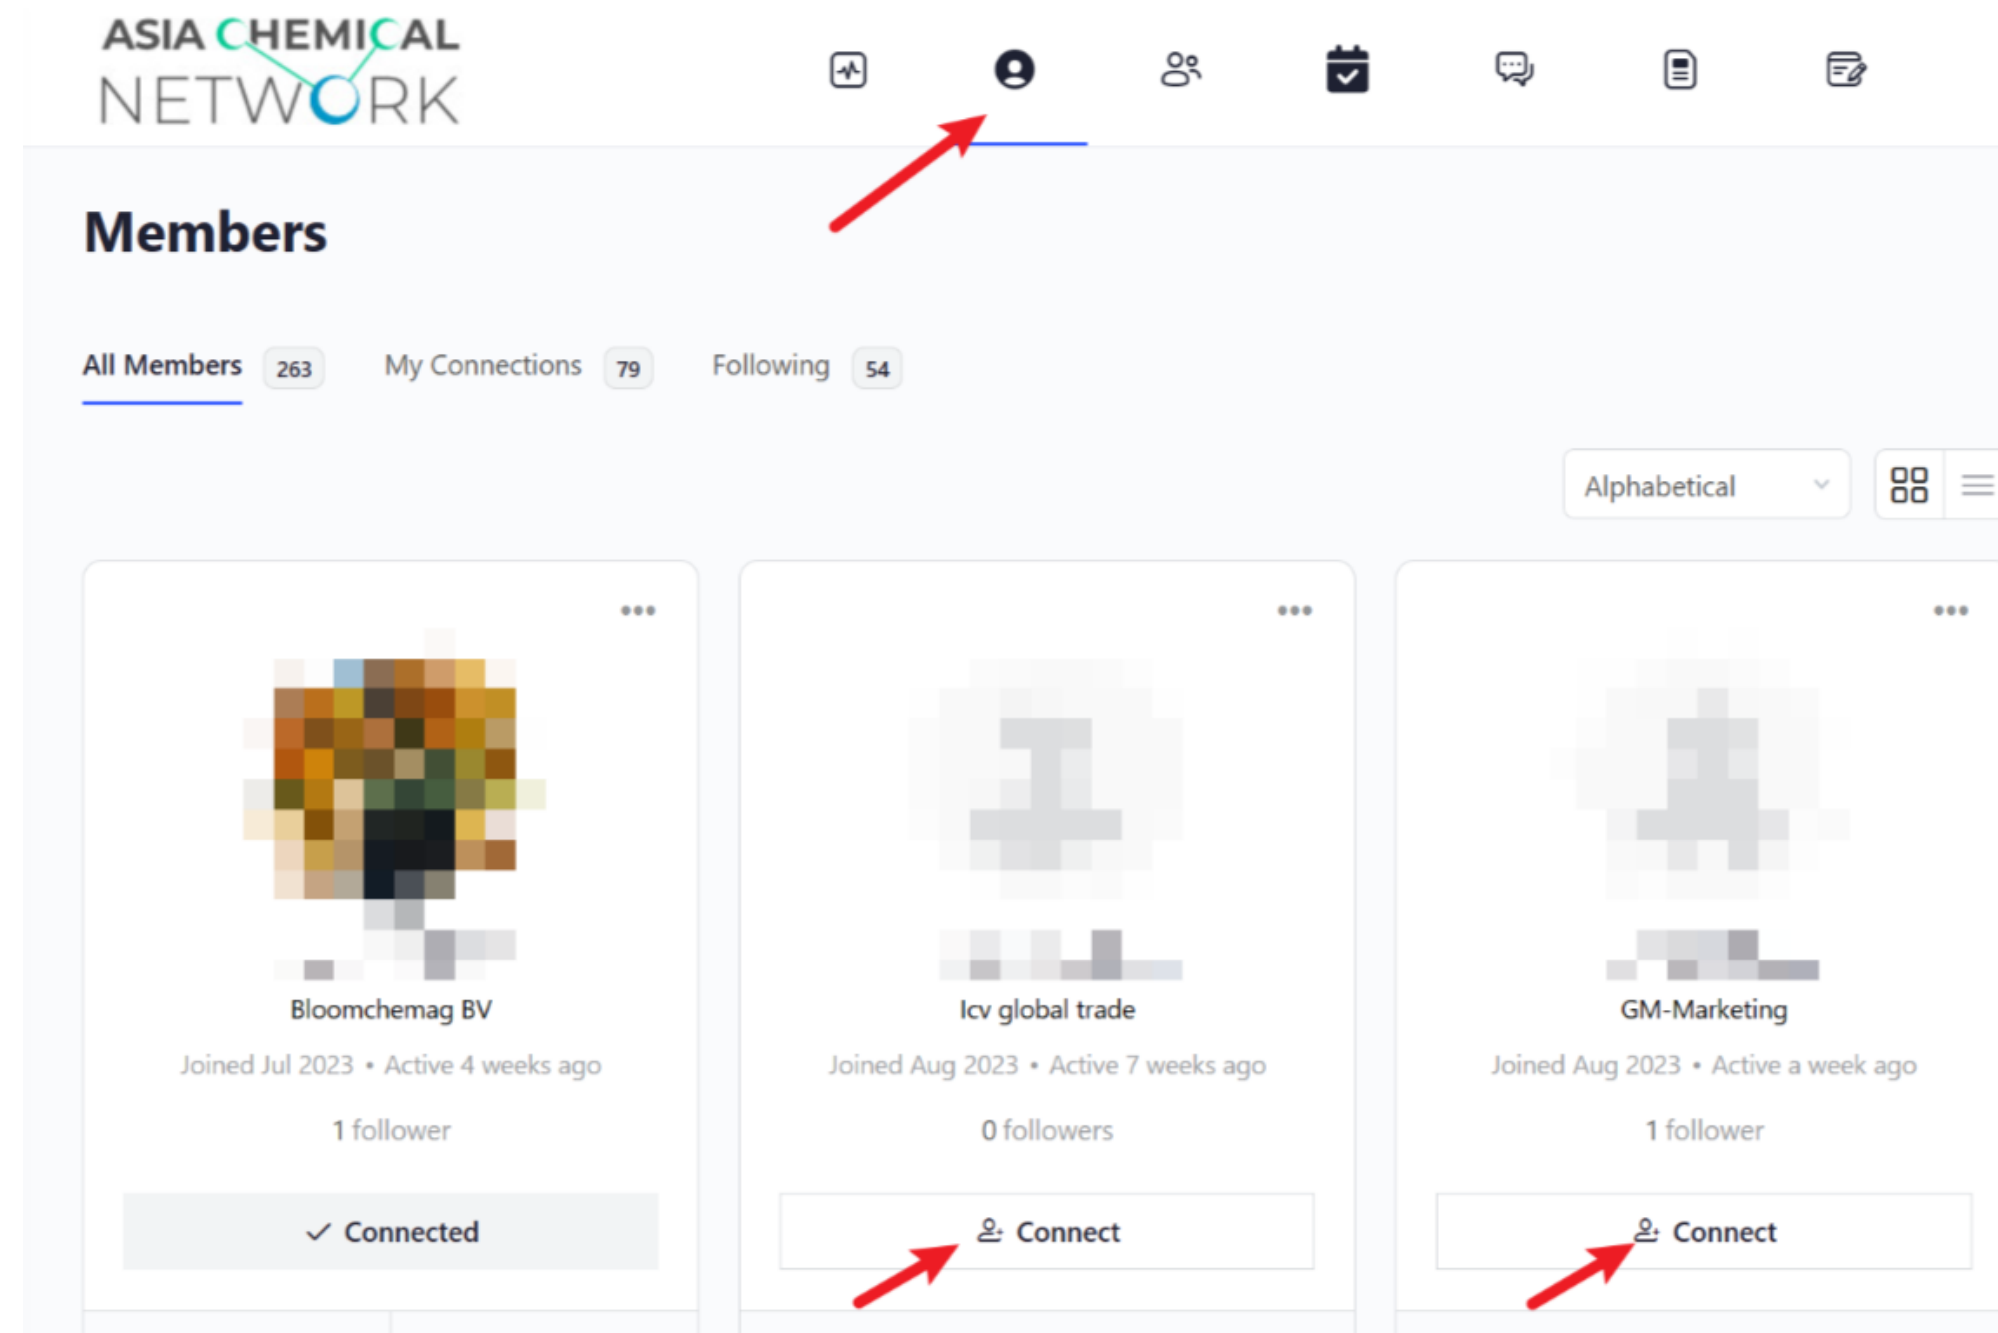

1. To request a connection with a member, visit their profile and click on the "Connect" button.

Make Connection Requests

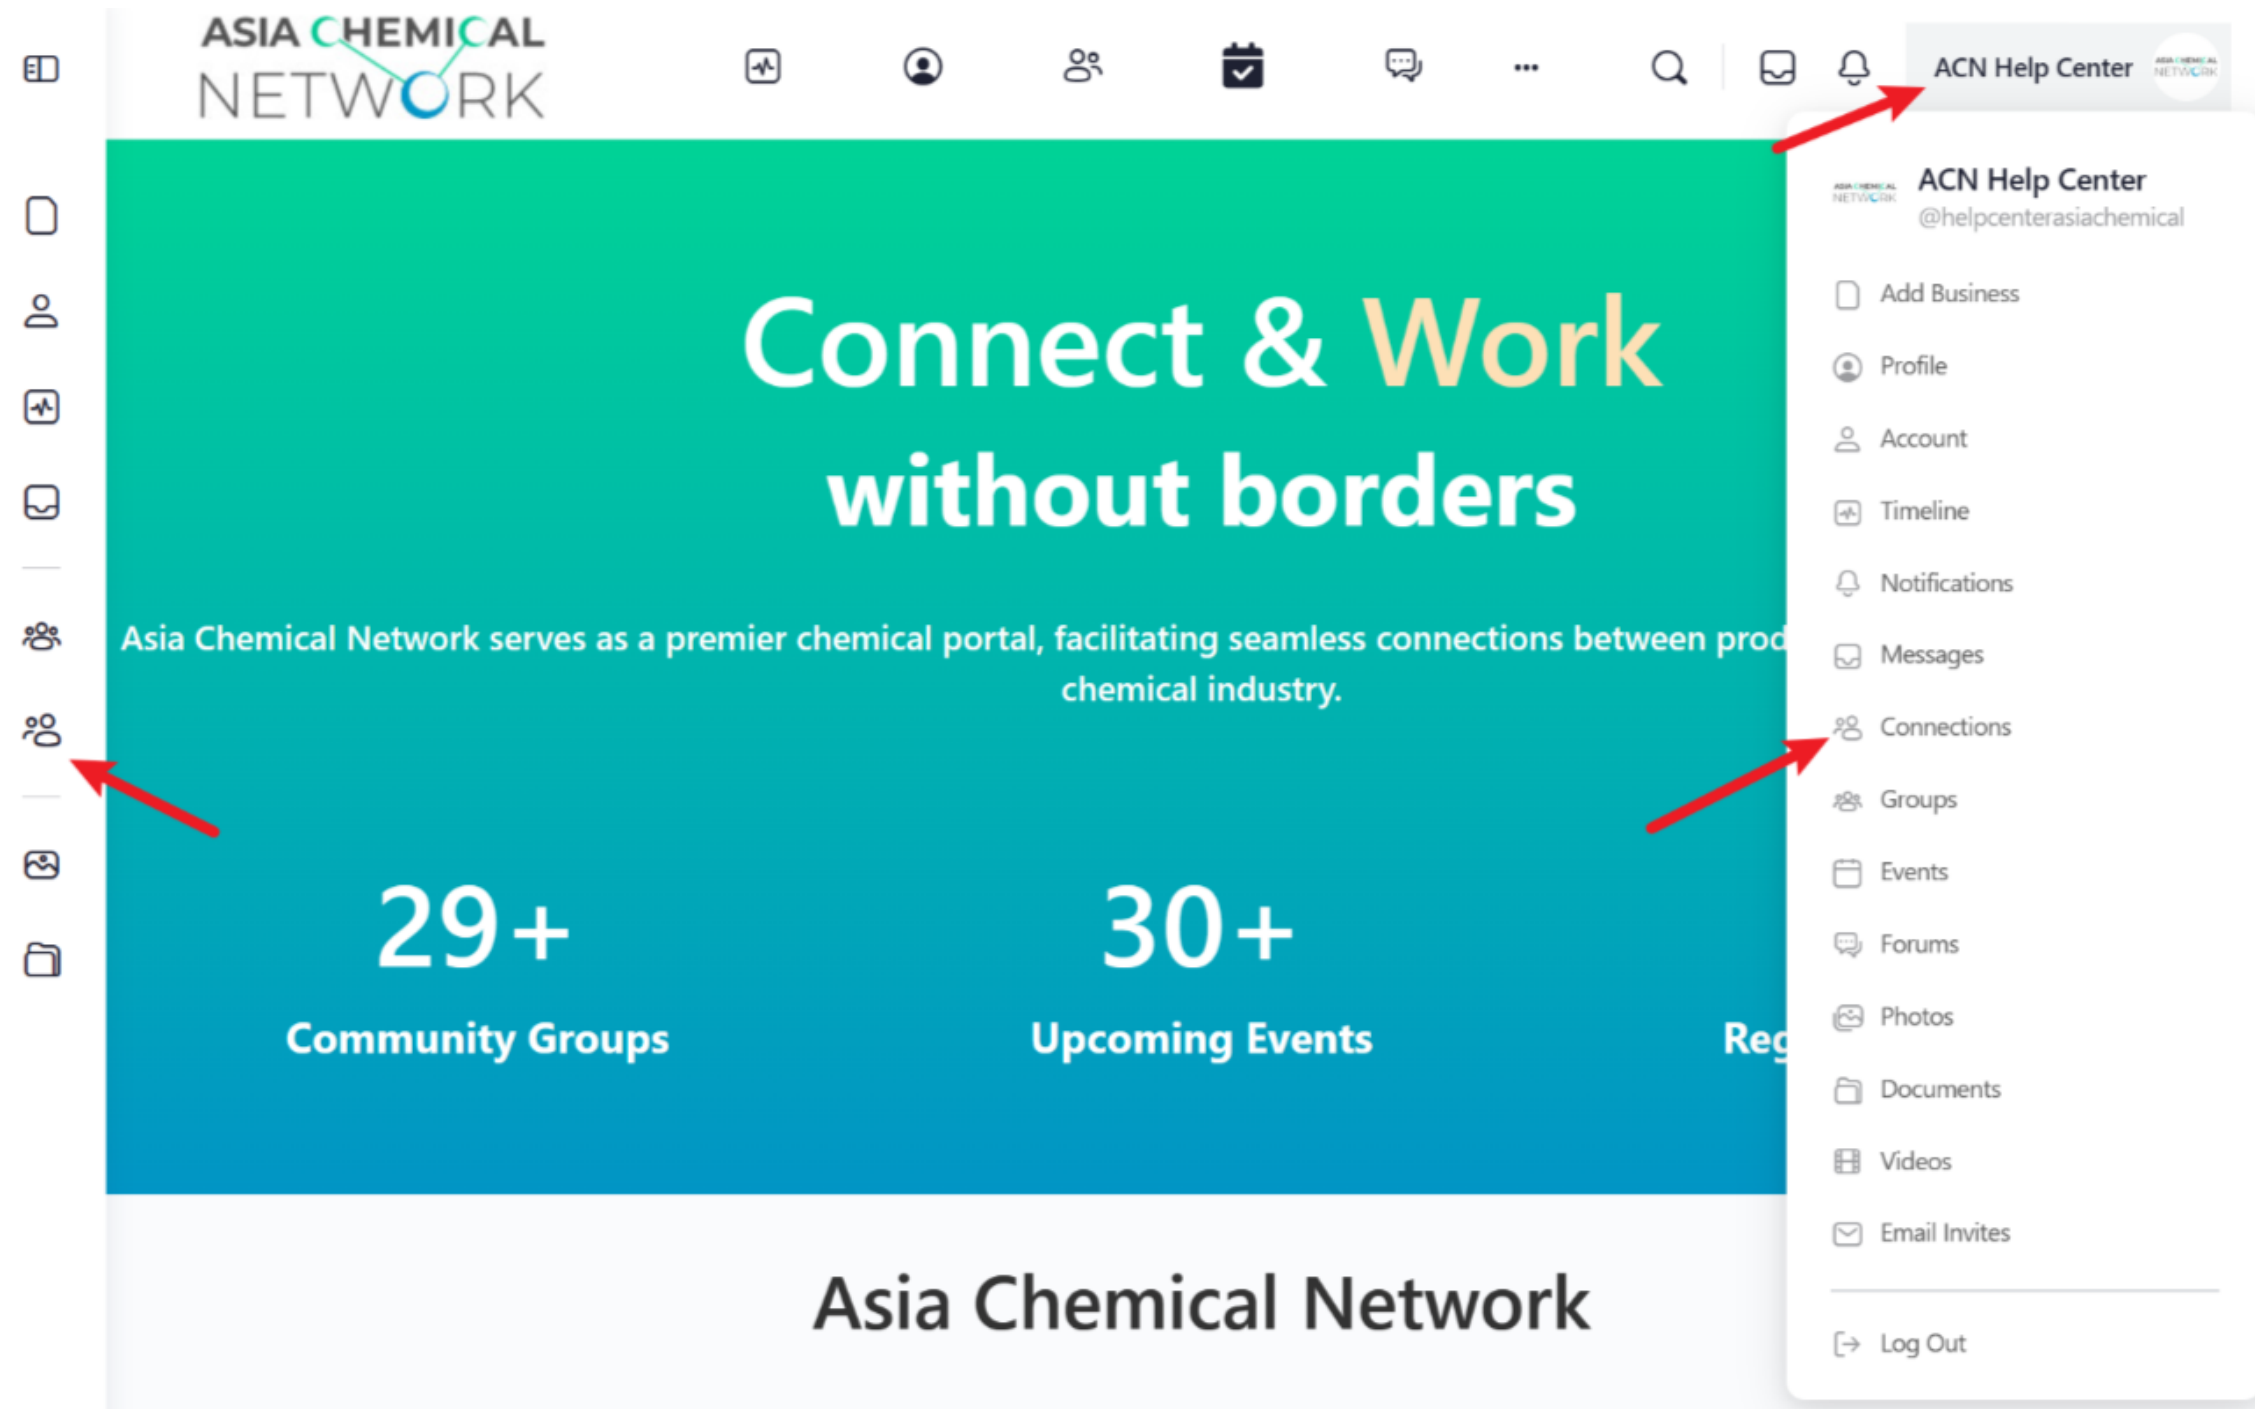

You can connect with members in two different ways:

2. Navigate to the Members section, and click on the "Connect" button to make a connection request.

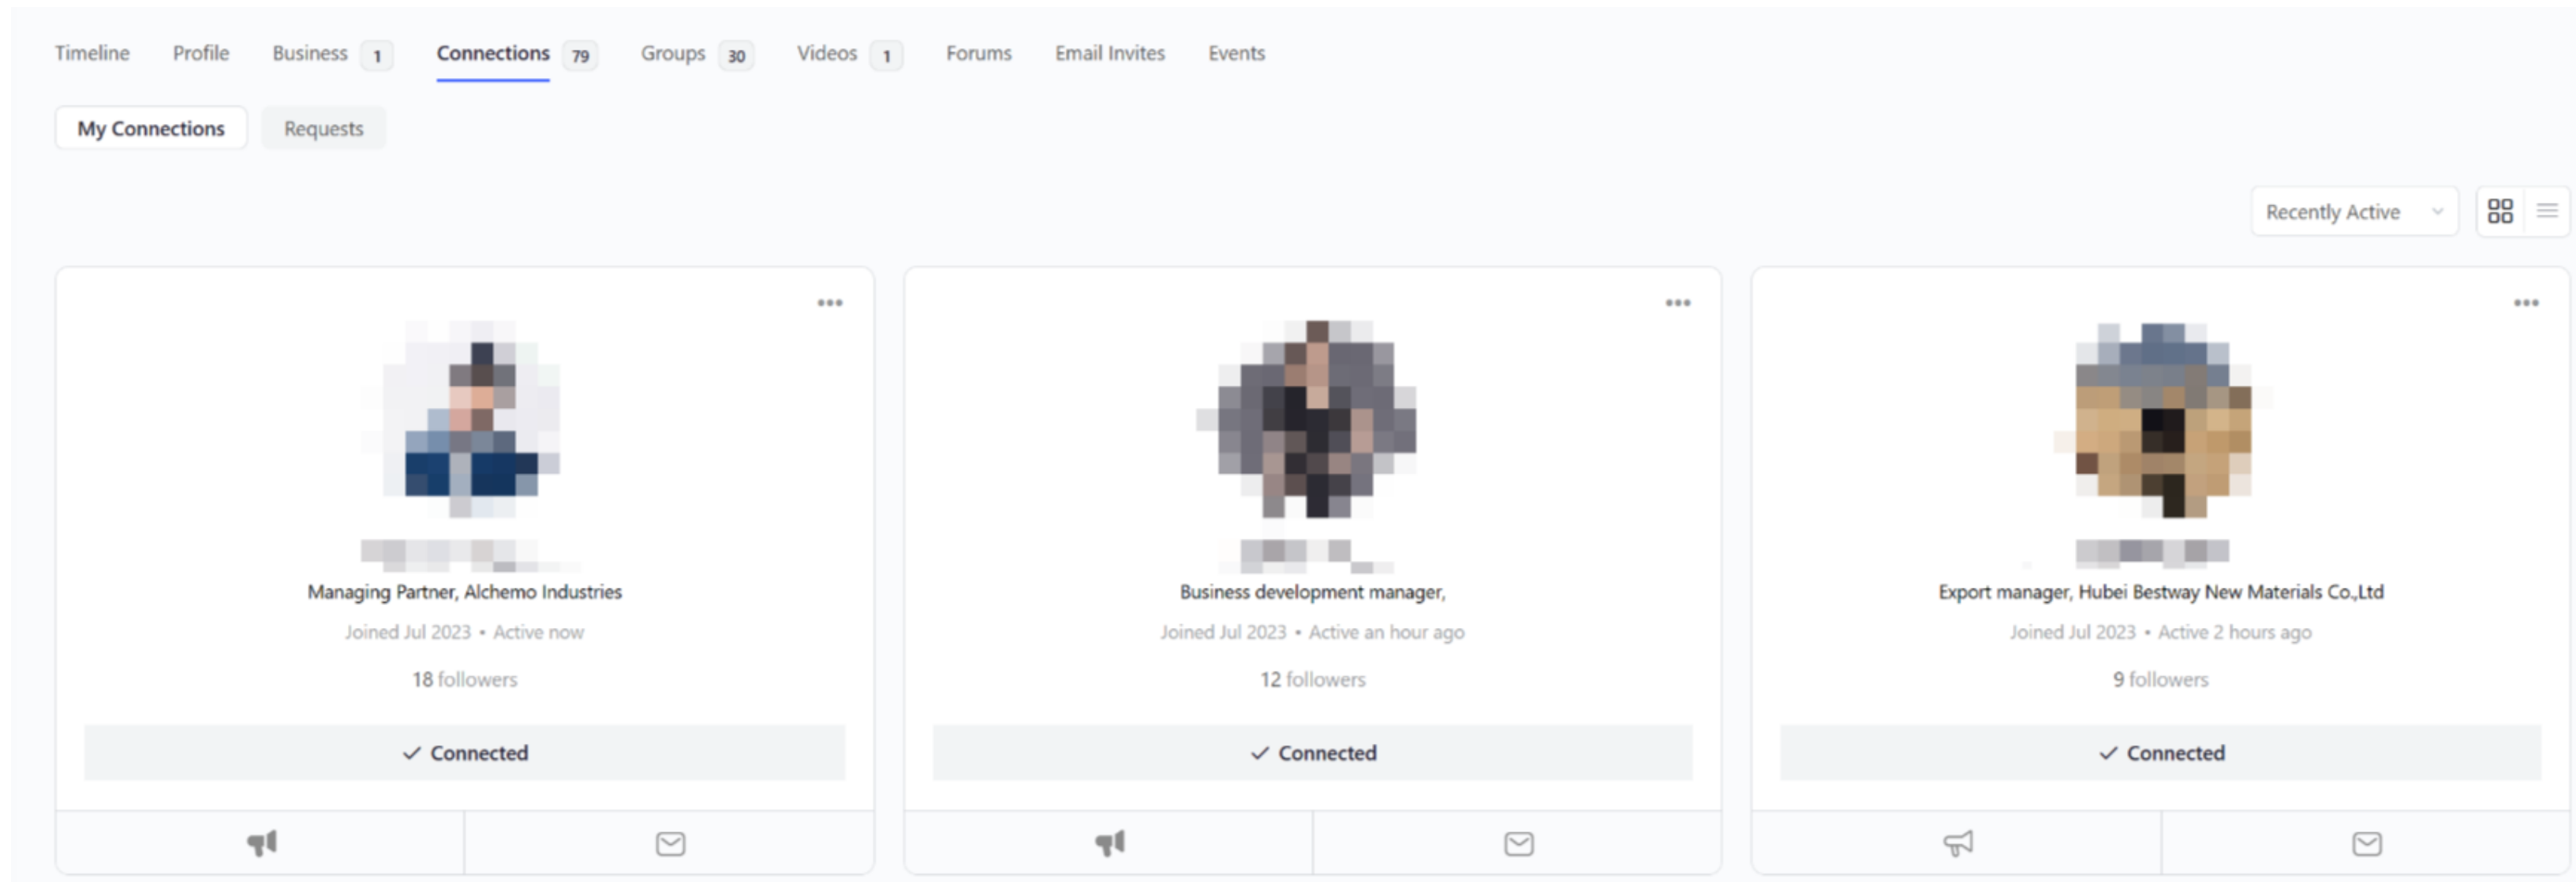

Manage your connections

The following picture illustrates two methods of accessing connections.

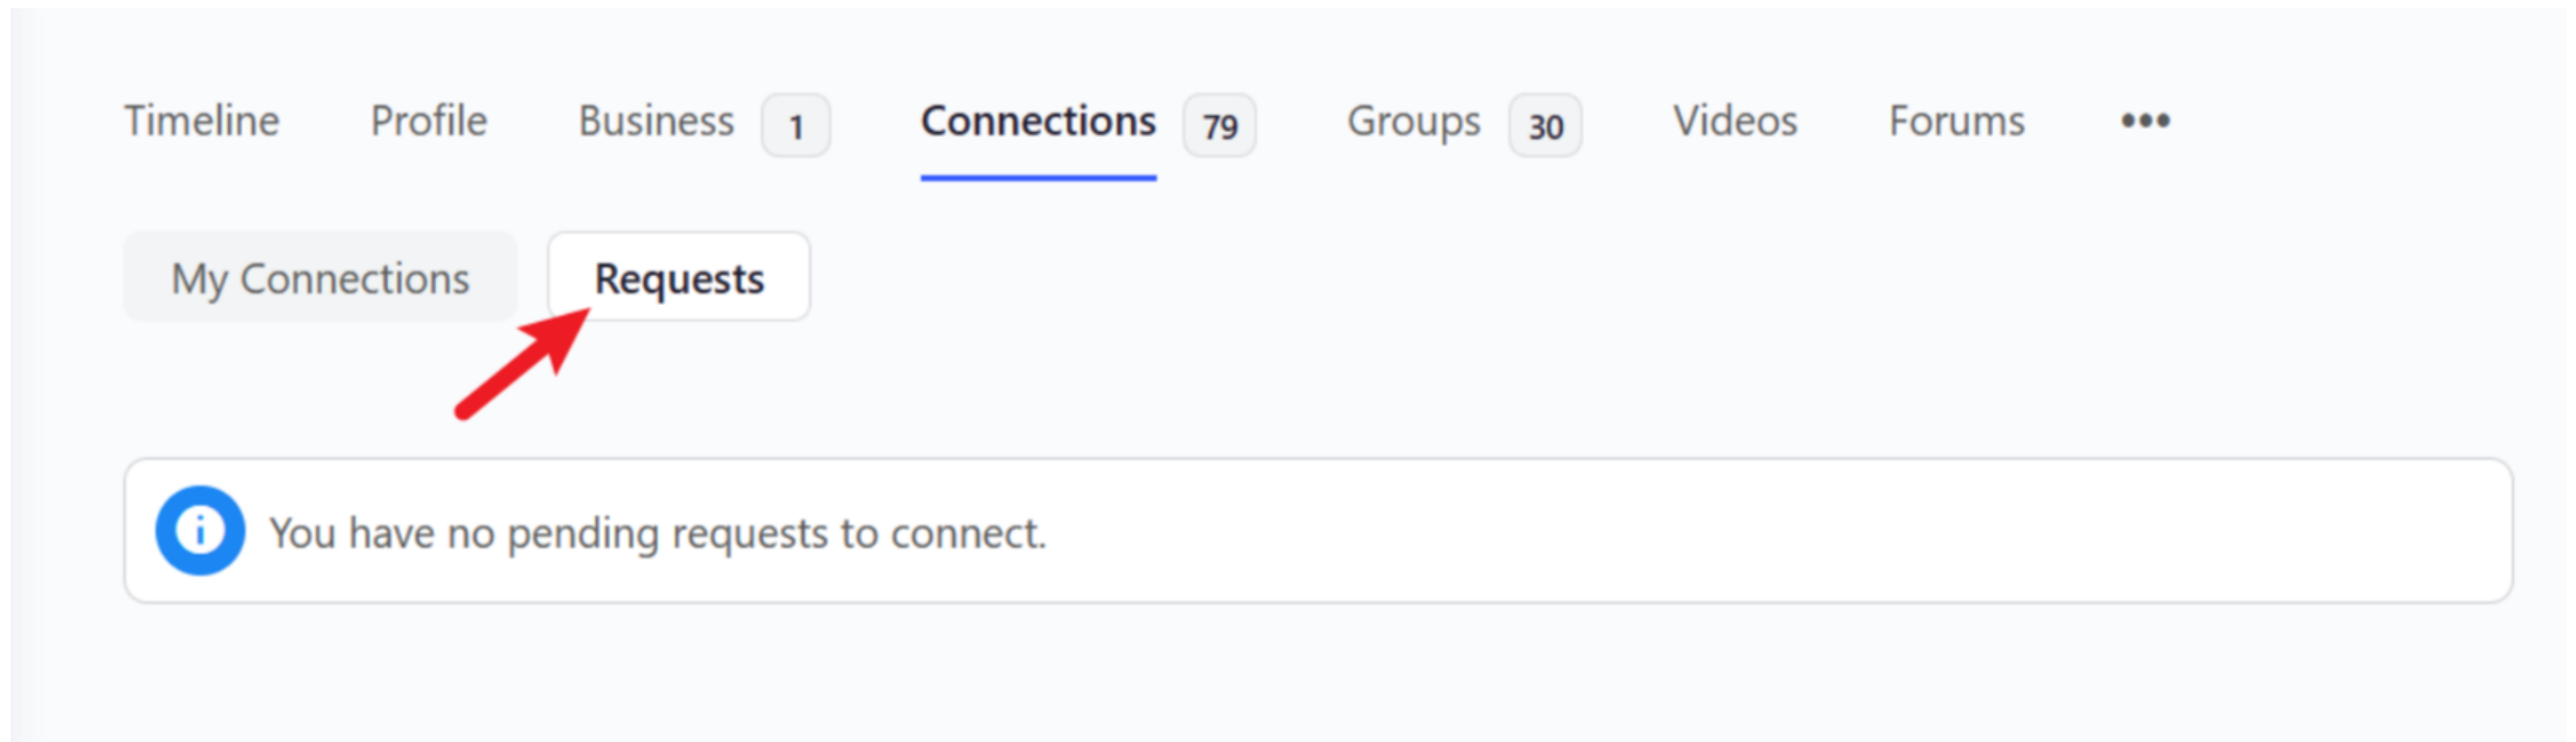

Manage your connections

This is where you can view a list or grid of all your connections within the platform

Pending Connection Requests

To view all the requests to connect that are pending, go to "Connections" page and click "Requests".

ASIA CHEMICAL NETWORK

Thank you!

www.asiachemical.net